THAT IRREPRESSIBLE DOCTRESS.

Doctress Walker is decidedly unputdownable; she won't receive "no" for an answer, let her be refused never so many times. Spite of her bad luck with Creswell, Defano, Cox, and Fisher, she yesterday reaswell, Defano, Cox, and Fisher, she yesterday had the boldness to attack the magnate of the Treasury, in the person of Thomas L. Tullock, the appointment cierk of that complicated department. The Doctress attacked the galant Tullock in his private office. "I come for an office," quoth the Doctress, Tullock surveyed the female professor of medicine in unwhisperables with a look of severity, and inquired of her why she did not apply at other offices where her why she did not apply at other offices, where there was not so much prosoure. Doetress Mary re-turned scoraful book with scoraful look, and conde-scended only to reply, "Mr. Tailock, I have called acceptain the result of my application for a position in this description."

Mr. Tullock-Well, madam, I really have been at busy for some time considering what removals and reductions are essential to the welfare of the depart-ment, that I have not had time to consider the perfect multitude of applications that are now awaiting

Dr. Mary I think I have been very badly treated. Dr. Mary—I think I have been very badly treated. I must light to rown way, and I think that my own being steened in my own being should be equally valuable with that of a politician in support of an application for a cierkship. Not only have I been treated slightingly by the officials to whom I have applied, but several reporters have thought it a fair thing to ridicule me because I am so persistent in my own support.

Mr. Tullock....I have never given any reporters information about you, madain, Mary Walker, M. D.—Well, if you have not, somebody else has, and it is all the same thing to me, for I suffer all the same. But that is altogether another reatier, sir. What I want to know is whether I, a poor, lone, unprotected woman, an to be kept dodging from office to office in search of contents. ng from office to office in search of employment sin-ply because I am a woman and have the inde-pendence to wear a dress different from the rest of pendence to wear a dress different from the rest of my sex? A miserable politician can get favor and emolument by impudence, but I, who deserve both, can get nothing out ridienle and insult. Is this fair?

Mr. Tullock middly responden to this that he could not see that it was altogether fair, but remarked diplomatically that he could not give any encouragement to the Doctress as yet regarding her ambilion to fill an office under Unite Sam. The Doctress thereupon fastened her cap firmer on her beat and took herself off, —Washington Correspondence of the N. F. Heraid.

SHELLABARGER.

From the Springfield (Ohio) Daily Republic, May 17. We publish below a note from Hon, Samuel Shella-barger, United States Minister to Portugal, addressed to the senior editor of the Republic, which, although it was not written for publication, so gracefully expresses our esteemed friend's feeling towards the press and the people of the country at large, and more especially of his own city and Congressional district, that we deem it eminently proper that it should be laid before the public. Mr. Shellabarger and his most amiable and excellent wife are held in very high esteem by our fellow-citizens, and they will always feel a deep interest in their welfare and in the welfare of their children, whether at home or abroad in foreign lands. We append the note:—

SPRINGPIELD, May 15, 1869.—Mr. Nichols—Dear Friend—I leave for New York, by way of Washington, on Thessian morning next, and will sail for ton, on Thesakay morning next, and will sail for Liverpoel on Wednesday, 26th of May, upon the Cunard steamer Australasian. I go by way of London and Paris to Lisbon. Mrs. Sheliabarger and Anna will accompany me to Europe and will go to New York on Thursday next. We will remain at the Fifth Avenue Hotel until we sail.

This note is speat lead to may fail again to meet you.

This note is sent lest I may fail again to meet you. and that I may communicate to you my favewell and a new acknowledgment of my gratifude to you per-sonally and as a member of the American press. To these I would like to express the sincere and pre-found sense, which I shall ever feel, of obligation under which I have been brought by most singular and uniform and incessant kindnesses extending through many years. I know you cannot realize how gratifying to me have been these kindnesses which I have received from the press of my State and country, and especially from those of my own district and city. For these tokens of approval of my public life have been valued by me, not in the proportion of the fame or influence of the journals that have so honored me, but in proportion at they come from sources nearer to my life and by as they come from sources nearer to my late and, by me, ever-beloved constituency and to my home. There are thousands to whom, upon leaving my country temporarily, I would like so much to comcountry temporarily, I would like so much to com-municate in person my good-by and my respect; but as I cannot, I content myself by taking this repre-sentative farewell of them all by taking it of you. Heaven bless and preserve our country and all its sources and instruments of elevation and enlight-enment, of which the brotherhood of journalists, to which you belong, is one of the most important. BOLD ROBBERY.

A most daring and successful robbery was perpetrated in Pittsburg on Thursday afternoon, the safe in the wholesale grocery establishment of R. Robinson & Co., No. 225 Liberty street, being robbed of $2500 in cash, and about the same amount in checks and notes. It appears that in the morning, about 11 o'clock, one of the men who is supposed to have been connected, with the robbery entered the store, and asked to have a ten dollar bill changed. After cetting the bill changed, he immediately left. After getting the bill changed, he immediately left.
In the afternoon, a little after 3 o'clock, the same men returned and asked the price of a quantity of beans and other articles, and had the clerk call Mr. Robinson from the rear of the store. Just then another man came in and inquired of Mr. Robinson if he knew a friend of his who was a porter in some wholesale house in the city, at the same time mentioning his friend's name. Mr. Robinson said be did not know him, and was about returning to the rear of the store, when the man called him back again, and detained him a moment or so in conversation. The two then left suddenly, and Mr. Robinson, on going to the office, found the safe had been robbed. The thief or thieves had taken $2500 in cash and about the same amount in checks and notes, together with the or thieves had taken $2500 in cash and about the same amount in checks and notes, together with the bank book. The papers, however, will be of no value to them. Some of the papers were found in Spring alley, in the rear of the store, immediately after the robbery, and it is supposed that the thief entered the back door and robbed the safe while his two companions were in the front part of the store engaging the attention of Mr. Robinson. The book-keeper had left the store only a moment before, and before he left noticed a large man with black whiskers who passed through the store and out through the alley.

As soon as the robbery was discovered, the two men who had been in the front part of the store were followed. One of them disappeared and the other followed. One of them disappeared and the other went across the Hand street bridge and down the river bank to Sandusky street, where he was joined by another. They both then carried new black travelling bags and passed up Sandusky street to the corner of Ohio, where they were joined by the other man who was in the store, and has since been
